D. Reading

A group of students started a project to collect old computers for children in a rural area. While some students were checking the devices, others were preparing simple instructions. They repaired five computers and delivered them to a small learning centre last month. The centre has used the computers for online lessons since then. The project has helped children access learning materials and has also taught the volunteers teamwork and problem-solving.

17. What was the project collecting?
18. What were some students doing while others prepared instructions?
19. How many computers did they repair?
20. How long has the centre used the computers?
21. Name two skills the volunteers learned.

E. Writing

Write 120–150 words about a time you helped someone or a useful invention you have used. Include at least one Past Continuous sentence and one Present Perfect sentence.
