D. Reading

A group of students visited a national park with a local guide. Before the trip, their teacher reminded them not to leave litter. The guide said that tourism could help local people, but visitors had to respect wildlife. Students carried reusable bottles and stayed on marked paths. If more tourists follow these rules, natural habitats will be better protected.

17. Who guided the students?

18. What did their teacher remind them?

19. Name two responsible actions during the trip.

20. What may happen if more tourists follow the rules?

E. Writing. Write 120–150 words about how young people can protect nature while travelling. Use a reported statement and both conditional types.
